Stay strong. Stand up. Have a voice.

Independent Education Union gives early childhood teachers access to:

- ✓ industrial advice and support: better pay and conditions for you
- ✓ representation in industrial tribunals and courts on work related matters
- ✓ legal advice and representation on workers compensation claims
- ✓ support and payment recovery: in 2016 IEU recovered $5 million for individual members
- ✓ free PD on a wide range of topics: keep your accreditation up to date
- ✓ Accumulator app: casual and temp teachers use this to track their days worked
- ✓ a strong network: industrially and socially aware teachers in your workplace, region, state, Australia wide and throughout the world
- ✓ a professional voice: through conferences, social media and advocacy
- ✓ publications: two professional journals plus an industry newspaper throughout the year
- ✓ member benefits: Teachers Health Fund, NGS Super, Teachers Mutual Bank and ME Bank services, discounts through Union Shopper.

Stay connected. Have a voice.

Joining the IEU is the best way for early childhood teachers to have a voice. The IEU can negotiate on your behalf for pay rises and better conditions. It can also provide members with legal representation, to fight for issues like fair redundancy pay.

Union membership provides other benefits like free publications (Bedrock, IE and Newsmonth delivered to your door), conferences and advocacy on behalf of the early childhood profession.

The IEU also provides support for early childhood teachers undergoing accreditation. There is a dedicated officer employed to answer your queries, and the Union provides professional development that is registered with NESAs.

Union members can access free online professional development through the Teachers Learning Network (TLN).

EXCLUSIVE OFFER

Free professional development for early childhood members

Free professional development for IEU early childhood members will allow you to stay on top of current issues in early years education, both with your professional learning and with maintaining your teacher accreditation.
